UK Education Delegation and Seminars in India and in the Gulf

“Exploring innovation and opportunities for collaborative work in skills development”

TVET UK and Assessment Tomorrow are delighted to announce a series of missions to India and the Middle East linked to Seminars on innovation in Learning and Assessment.

The express goals of these delegations will be

- to develop stronger ties between UK and local education and training providers,
- to share experience on the delivery of skills development and talent management, and
- to explore ways that innovative solutions in both the UK and the local markets can be exploited to the benefit of learners and institutions.

The first of these planned delegations will be

January 2011 – for a visit by UK organisations to the Indian State of Gujarat and then to South India lead by TVET UK and featuring two Innovation Seminars hosted by Assessment Tomorrow.

February 2011 - for a visit by UK organisations to the Gulf States lead by TVET UK and will feature an Innovation Seminar hosted by Assessment Tomorrow.

The delegation members will have the opportunity to meet and exchange contacts, ideas and initiate projects with potential partners in the home markets. The seminars will similarly provide an opening to meet an invited audience of regional decision makers in the areas of Education, Skills Development and Training.

We are keen to involve TVET UK members in this exciting development and are inviting members to join this delegation in several roles

- as delegates to meet potential collaborative partners in India and the Middle East;
- as speakers at the Seminars, to showcase innovative in the management of learning and assessment;
- as exhibitors or sponsors to take a more proactive and visible role in reaching key decision makers in India and the Gulf States.
